WDRL version 1.0 Version 1.0 of the WDRL specification is now available at The 1.0 version has only minor changes from the 0.9 version over the previous month, and is targeted for release in the next few weeks. The most significant change between the WDRL 0.9 version and the WDRL 1.0 version is the addition of the error and status nodes, which are used to convey error and status information in web-page transactions. The 1.0 version of the WebDAV Encryption Document is also now available at This specification provides an interface that allows web servers to encrypt and decrypt document data in WebDAV transactions. The W3C Encryption Working Group is interested in seeing feedback regarding its specification, either in the form of bug reports or substantive feedback. Please send your feedback to the W3C Encryption Working Group Enhancement Proposals for WDRL 1.0 In addition to obtaining feedback on the specification itself, it's likely that members of the WDRL community will be considering enhancement proposals for WDRL 1.0. Given that this is an emerging specification, and many of its key features and conformance requirements have yet to be formalized, the explicit goal of the WDRL working group is to allow enhancement
