The 26-year-old is out of contract at Old Trafford in the summer and was linked with a move to Manchester City. But it has been claimed that the Brazil international is keen on a return to Sao Paulo. 'He will not come to Man City - people who don't know anything just sell their articles,' said Santos vice-president Andre Horta. 'He will be in England, he is a big player and we are very interested in him.' Paulista: Ronaldo Sr, pictured, is the man behind the move to Sao Paulo But there is no suggestion that the relationship between Santos and Real has broken down. Paulista moved to Sao Paulo after starring for Brazil at the 2002 World Cup in Japan and an honourable mention at the 2004 European Championships. Although he played for Barcelona during the 2006 World Cup and the 2007 Confederations Cup, it was in China that he established himself as the best footballer on the planet. For the past two years he has been starring for Real Madrid in the lucrative Chinese Super League, where Santos are keen to follow him. In 2006 the Genoa-based club paid £60million for the player from Brazil. He has been a regular in the Brazil team and scored the winning goal against Japan to secure a place in the World Cup in South Africa. Santos are keen to bring in their own star and already have a deal on the table with Madrid for Paulista's younger son Rivaldo.Q: Unable to set notification icon on status bar I am not able to get icon on status bar, notification icon is coming up from system settings I am following way, to add notification icon on status bar NotificationManager notificationManager = (NotificationManager) getSystemService(Context.NOTIFICATION_SERVICE); Intent intent = new Intent(context, SettingsActivity.class); PendingIntent pIntent = PendingIntent.getActivity(context,0,intent,0);

New biological treatment of malignant pleural effusion using adjunctive thrombopoietin receptor agonist. Malignant pleural effusion (MPE) is a common complication of various advanced malignancies and causes discomfort and psychological distress. Here we analyzed the effect of recombinant human thrombopoietin (rhTPO) as an adjunctive therapy to standard medical therapy for MPE in an unselected patient population with various malignancies. All patients with newly diagnosed MPE (N=144) between May 2007 and August 2009 were enrolled in a randomized controlled study and received the standard therapy with prednisolone combined with either rhTPO (12.5µg/kg subcutaneous injection weekly) or placebo for 4 weeks. The primary endpoint was the change in the pleural fluid volume and the secondary endpoints were the changes in the pleural fluid white blood cell (WBC) count, protein concentration and in the echogenicity of the pleural fluid. There was a significant increase in the pleural fluid volume in both groups. The additional adjunctive treatment of rhTPO did not influence these parameters. In summary, rhTPO did not show any beneficial effect in the treatment of MPE. These results suggest that rhTPO cannot be recommended for clinical practice in the treatment of MPE. This invention relates generally to vapor recovery systems and more particularly to a vapor recovery system used in conjunction with an air conditioning system, especially a system for recovering vapors produced by an air conditioning system. Vapor recovery systems are used in conjunction with air conditioning systems to reduce the cost of fuel used in the air conditioning systems. When hot water is used to condition air for a particular space, such as the passenger compartment of an automobile, great quantities of vapors are produced which are disposed of in the discharge air stream from the air conditioner. If the vapor is not properly purged from the air duct work of the system, the vapor will enter the passenger compartment. On the other hand, if the vapor is purged from the passenger compartment, a portion of the energy normally used to condition the air is lost. The present invention is directed to a vapor recovery system which is used with an air conditioner and which is adapted to collect vapors in a chamber within the system. The system includes a vapor outlet in communication with the chamber, a chamber vapor recovery system and a force-drive vent valve. The chamber vapor recovery system is designed to
